Weeks
Studio

Handmade in New York since 1996.

David Weeks Studio is a design studio based in Brooklyn NY. Founded by designer David Weeks in 1996, the studio is renowned for its large-scale sculptural lighting. We are committed to the act of making, much of the work is made by hand by our talented team of designers, engineers, and artisans. The process marries an artist's sensibility with technical precision. Each fixture is unique and designed to last for generations. We design and produce lighting and products that are highly regarded and sought after by our clients, designers, and architects around the world.

Widely regarded as the founding father of North American lighting design, David Weeks has been a pioneering figure in Brooklyn's burgeoning independent design movement since his studio's early roots in Dumbo. His genre-defining work is the result of a distinctly hands-on, sculptural process that explores scale and proportion, balance, and movement.

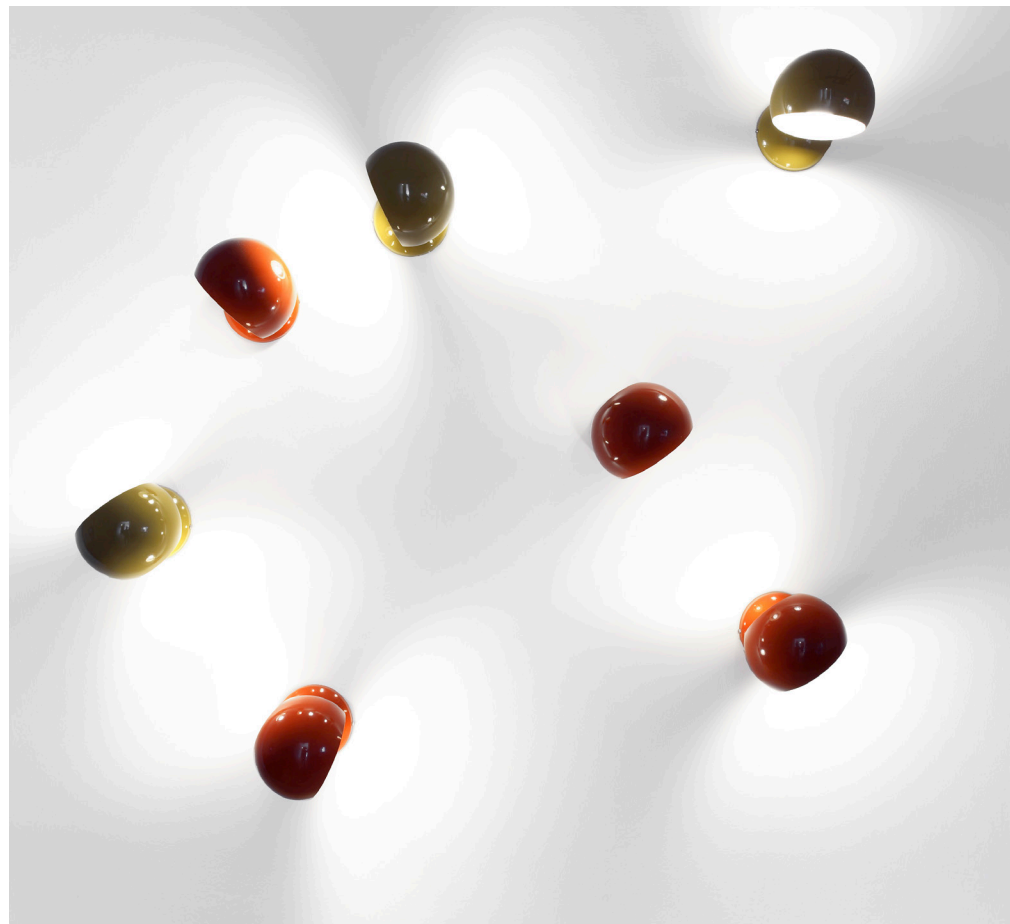

Precision design, made to measure.

David Weeks Studio works alongside architects, interior designers, and private clients to construct experience and define spaces. Our made-to-order production process allows us to offer customizations on much of our lighting collections. Whether you're looking for unique dimensions or a custom color statement, our team will be happy to guide you through the process and estimate any project. The studio offers a full custom design service that extends beyond the scope of our existing collections.

Meet with our team to learn more about our custom capabilities.

Made slow, shipped quick.

DWS Quickship program offers our best-loved designs, ready to ship and delivered within 2-3 weeks. Quick Ship items are handmade in Brooklyn with the same care as our made-to-order items but feature fixed dimensions in our most requested colors and finishes.

Boi Collection

Boi brightens up serious design with an iconic form that gives an ebullient nod to 1960's pop design. Great in pairs and even better in multiples, it spills light from curved shapes, and casts patterns onto surrounding walls.

David Weeks Studio works alongside architects, interior designers, and private clients to construct experience and define space with singular expression.

Our made-to-order production process allows us to offer customizations on much of our lighting collections. Our team will be happy to guide you through the process and estimate any project, whether you're looking for made-to-measure dimensions or a custom color statement. The studio offers a full custom design service that extends beyond the scope of our existing collections. Please contact our sales department for more details.
